

Counting your chickens?
You can count on us!

Hatchery automation equipment has to be accurate and reliable, but it also needs to be easy to clean after each use.

LINCO has developed a new line of automation equipment for hatcheries, ranging from reception of eggs to delivery of chicks. The system is made in a modular construction combining reliability, accuracy, quality and bio-security with outstanding performance.

Our new chicken separator is manufactured in modules which are easily rolled apart when cleaning takes place, and at the same time the design offers increased performance on a higher level.

If you require cost efficient hatchery automation, - you can count on LINCO.
